

Swedes, Citing Spy Case, Call Off Visit to Soviet

Special to The New York Times
STOCKHOLM, Aug. 1.—A visit to the Soviet Union by a 17-member delegation from the Swedish Parliament has been called off.

The visit had been scheduled for Sept. 12. The delegation was to have studied educational problems, among other things.

Axel Anderson, a Liberal member, said: "After the Wennerstrom spy case I think it impossible to visit a country that has done such things against our country."

He referred to Stig Wennerstrom, a Swede recently accused of having spied for years for the Soviet Union.

Although there has been no formal decision, the chairman, Emil Naesstrom, a Socialist, said: "I think we have to postpone the trip."
